Desperate Dan is spooked by a floating pest head

BEWARE OF GAYS

RUN 1382, 29 JULY 2009, KAU TO SHAN

Crap, short run, said the hare, as he assumed his duty of “guarding” the beer while we, the stoic few, cantered off into the leafy suburbs of Kau To Shan hoping to sample some of the renowned shiggy country around this outpost of the wealthy and privileged.

Alas, it was not to be, because hare Desperate Dan had backed himself into a woeful corner by his decision to take along Slider to help set the run. Or rather by his decision to take along teenage daughter Slider to set the run at 1pm on a hot and humid day. Slide she certainly did, and the hapless pair had to get off the hill double-quick and get cooled down and hydrated. Result: The shortest run since Zimmerframe’s infamous 15-minute out-and-back.

Even visitor Moni, on only her second hash, was complaining when it became apparent we were heading back to the buckets with barely 20 minutes under our belts, and god knows what virgin Abel thought, or SKH₃ visitor Britarse, who’s started running with N₂TH₃ in an attempt to get some night running experience before the Raleigh Challenge.

Into the villages, round and about, plenty of checks, and Eunuch short-circuiting at a particularly “clever” checkback and following trail backwards until he met us again on the new road, not at all fazed by the “NO NO” signs he kept passing.

Mango's shame – Gloria's fame

The GM somehow managed to pull a muscle in his calf and was even more crap on the run than usual, balefully moaning as he limped in about “too much hardtop”.

Not a bad trail for a shortie, and the pack was kept well together to the extent that Mango Groove was heard gloating over his first ever “victory” over Go West.

But there was a twist in the tail, as the hare, obviously having assessed the pack as being as dumb as himself, attempted to route the trail round again in a bid to pretend it was longer than it really was. Nice try! It was the eagle-eyed QT that spotted the home trail as most of the pack dashed off on an abortive second circuit to QT's Fartypants-like taunts of “Well you can go that way if you like but I know where I'm going!”

So Gloria trooped in first, and having beaten his old man twice in three days was pretty cool and just drank his customary vodka disguised as mineral water - clearly the secret of his power.

Eunuch was appointed Cash in VD's absence, and decided to discount subs to $40 on the grounds that the run was “SHORT!”, leaving notorious equities trader Bogbrush frantically screaming a Pavlovian “SELL!”

Mayhem ensued in the circle when Serbian Bomber produced three handwritten sheets of downdowns – but it was just a wind-up, and he let us off with a brief selection. Phew!

A rare on-on was staged or held at the pigeon daipaidongs of Fo Tan.

Runners: Mango Groove, Go West, Eunuch, Gloria, Billy Jizz, Liberace, Golden Jelly, Walky Talky, Dingaling, Sam, Serbian Bomber, Britarse, Gin & Vomit, Golden Balls, Bogbrush, Moni, Abel, QT, Stingray.
